DENVER
THE MILE HIGH CITY

AGENCY FOR HUMAN RIGHTS AND
COMMUNITY RELATIONS
City and County of Denver
Office of Community Support

201 W. Colfax Ave. Dept. 1102
Denver, CO 80202

Last Update: November 01, 2009

The Office of Community Support is a division of the Agency for Human Rights and Community Relations (HR/CR) at the City and County of Denver.

- HR/CR strives to empower and serve the communities of Denver by advocating for the rights of all people, fostering diversity and encouraging participation in City government.
- The Denver Office of Community Support strives to promote productive and positive collaborations between Denver communities, organizations and individuals with the appropriate City government agencies and/or departments.

The purpose of this guide is to provide information on programs and services in the City and County of Denver for immigrants and refugees to better assist individuals and organizations. Listing an agency in this guide does not signify an endorsement by the Office of Community Support nor does the inclusion of the agency signify an endorsement of us.

Organizations and programs are dynamic and always changing. We have tried to provide the most accurate information, but it is important to contact an agency to obtain the most current details. The Office of Community Support will maintain the most current version of this guide on its web-site at www.denvergov.org/Community_Support. If you would like to update any information in this guide and/or know of an agency that would like to be included, please contact Jamie Torres, Director of the Office of Community Support, at (720) 913-8471.

Additional resources can be found through the Mile High United Way's 2-1-1 program or the City and County of Denver's 3-1-1 program.

- 2-1-1 can be accessed by dialing these three numbers or through their web-site at www.unitedwaydenver.org. They maintain the largest database for health and human services in the Rocky Mountain Region.
- Denver's 3-1-1 can be accessed by dialing these three numbers and can assist you with all City and County of Denver non-emergency service requests, questions, problems, and concerns.

DPS ELA is responsible for ELA services for all Denver Public School students. English language learners are provided services through either a transitional native language instruction (TNLI) model or an English as a Second Language (ESL) model. Components of the transitional native language instruction model include native language instruction in Spanish, supported English content instruction, and English language development. Components of the ESL model include supported English content instruction and English language development. The kind of services provided at each school is determined by the number of English language learners at the school.

As a part of the ELA, there are 2 newcomer centers, located at Merrill Middle School and South High School, that provide instruction for limited English proficient middle school and high school students who are new to Denver Public Schools and have had limited or interrupted education. They offer intensive instruction in reading, writing, and understanding English for one or two semesters to prepare students for participation in an ESL or a transitional native language instruction model. Initial screening occurs in the home school, and those deemed appropriate are referred to the Newcomer Center for further evaluation.

Interpretation and translation services are provided in Arabic, Spanish, and Vietnamese.
