Project Overview

Project Scope

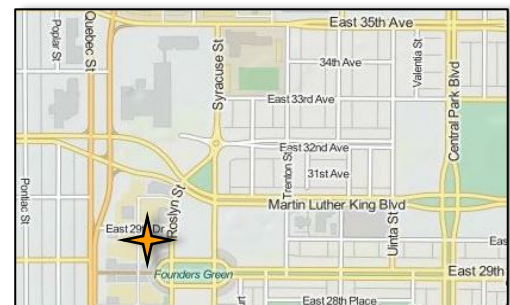

The Better Denver Bond Program funded the land acquisition, design and construction of a new branch library in the Stapleton neighborhood with a budget of approximately $11 million. The community was invited to share ideas on the site for the library, the building character, its interior environment, the children's area, sustainability, and technology. The design targeted a building that is nouveau-traditional with varied elevations, abundant windows and a strong indoor/outdoor relationship, including a protected outdoor space or porch at the building entry. The Denver Public Library and the project team achieved a LEED Gold certification for the new facility by incorporating energy efficient and environmentally sustainable features into its design, operation and the overall construction process.
