

DENVER CAPITAL MATRIX

Funding sources for entrepreneurs and small business.

DENVER
OFFICE OF ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

Introduction

The Denver Office of Economic Development (OED) is pleased to release this sixth annual edition of the Denver Capital Matrix.

This publication is designed as a tool to assist business owners and entrepreneurs with discovering the myriad of capital sources in and around the Mile High City. As a strategic initiative of the OED's JumpStart strategic plan, the Denver Capital Matrix provides a comprehensive directory of financing sources, from traditional bank lending, to venture capital firms, private equity firms, angel investors, mezzanine sources and more.

Small businesses provide the greatest opportunity for job creation today. Yet, a lack of needed financing often prevents businesses from implementing expansion plans and adding payroll. Through this updated resource, the OED strives to help connect businesses to start-up and expansion capital so that they can thrive in Denver.

Definitions

Venture Capital – Venture capital is capital provided by investors to small businesses and start-up firms that demonstrate possible high-growth opportunities. Venture capital investments have a potential for considerable loss or profit and are generally designated for new and speculative enterprises that seek to generate a return through a potential initial public offering or sale of the company.

Angel Investor – An angel investor is a high net worth individual active in venture financing, typically participating at an early stage of growth.

Private Equity – Private equity is an individual or consortium of investors and funds that make investments directly into private companies or initiate buyouts of public companies. Private equity is ownership in private companies that is not listed or traded on public exchanges. This is considered an illiquid and long-term investment.

Mezzanine Financing – Mezzanine financing is a hybrid of debt and equity financing that is typically used to finance the expansion of existing companies. Mezzanine financing is basically debt capital that gives the lender the rights to convert to an ownership or equity interest in the company if the loan is not paid back in time and in full. It is generally subordinated to debt provided by senior lenders such as banks and venture capital companies.
