Let Street Paving Begin!

Denver Public Works begins seasonal paving operations

DENVER, CO — Wednesday, March 26, 2014 – The Denver Public Works Street Maintenance Division has launched its 2014 street paving program and will address approximately 360 lane miles in Denver this year. Seventy-five of the lane miles in the program will be paved thanks to funding from Measure 2A, which voters passed in 2012.

Street Maintenance will use its fleet of equipment, including pavers, mills, and rollers, plus additional help from private contractors, to improve the condition of Denver’s streets.

“Every spring our Street Maintenance crews set out to improve the quality of life for our residents and visitors when street paving season opens in Denver,” said Mayor Michael B. Hancock. “Thanks to Denver voters for approving Measure 2A in 2012, 75 additional miles will be paved again this year improving our road system overall.”

Paving operations are weather dependent. Bad weather – freezing cold, rain, snow – may impact the planned paving schedule. Currently, paving operations are scheduled to take place in Berkeley neighborhood as follows:

- Street Maintenance crews started milling the Berkeley neighborhood, within the boundaries of 38th Avenue to 44th Avenue and Lowell Boulevard to Tennyson Street. Paving of the milled streets will is scheduled to start the week of March 31.

Please remember that “No Parking” signs are placed on affected blocks in advance of work to let residents know that we need them to move their vehicles; unmoved vehicles may be towed to allow paving work to proceed. The “No Parking” signs ask that no vehicles be parked on the street on weekdays, Monday-Friday, from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Thank you for your cooperation as we work to improve Denver’s streets!
