A message from Councilman Herndon

It’s full steam ahead for Northeast Denver Leadership Week (NDLW) planning. The District 8 team is working tirelessly to ensure the 2017 participants have a week-long experience that will be truly impactful for them. If you’re not familiar with NDLW, please visit NortheastDenverLeadershipWeek.org to learn more about our free leadership program for high school students. Current freshmen, sophomores and juniors are eligible to apply. We’re also looking for volunteer chaperones so if you’re willing to spend the entire week with us, please reach out to our office.

Our office is regularly notified of opportunities for community members to volunteer on various boards and commissions. At times, there seems to be more open spots than volunteers. If there are certain areas you are passionate about and are willing to share your time and expertise with the community, please let our office know and we can reach out when those opportunities become available.

With all the tension and apprehension in our country right now, I find it more important than ever to point out the positive things happening in our community. While there are too many to list them all here, I do want to highlight a group of District 8 residents who came together to help their neighbors. Residents at the Northfield Apartments recently experienced several tire slashing incidents. A group of neighbors heard about the vandalism and created a GoFundMe page to help those impacted by the crime. To all those who supported this effort in any way, thank you. It made a difference for the folks who were impacted and I’m proud of how our residents step in to support one another.

Know your neighbors: Jamie Perkins

What neighborhood do you live in and how long have you lived there?
I live in the East Colfax (also called East Montclair) neighborhood. My husband and I were extremely fortunate to have bought a house here in April 2014.

What do you like most about your neighborhood?
I love the diversity and the history. Some of my neighbors on my street have lived here since Stapleton was an airport and Lowry was a base. They have stories about how the community has changed, or hasn’t changed, around them.

How are you involved in the community?
I’m a member of the East Montclair Neighborhood Association and I serve as our Transportation Chair. I also volunteer weekly with the Spring Institute, assisting with English lessons for members of our neighborhood’s refugee population. That has been an amazing and humbling experience because I don’t speak their languages but we still connect over laughter and a drive to learn.

What’s something you’ve done in the community that you’re proud of?
I’m proud I know so many of my neighbors. I have found community on my street that is unlike any place I’ve lived in my adult life. I walk and bike often in the neighborhood and have gotten to know more people that way too.

What’s something about your community that you wish more people knew?
It’s more than just Colfax Avenue. My neighborhood has a huge diversity of people living in it, from people who have been here for decades to young families just moving in. You can hear multiple languages in one day just walking from the bus stop to home. We’re also a very safe neighborhood, with a low crime rate on the streets north and south of Colfax.

How do you like to spend your free time?
I spend a lot of time putting work into my house. One of the best parts of East Colfax is that the lots are a little bit bigger, which gives us room for raised garden beds, two chickens (named Tender and Nugget) and a duck (Pate Benatar).

What is one of your favorite businesses/restaurants in the community?
Quince Essential is hands-down the best coffee house in Denver and is owned by one of our neighbors! Tacos Acapulco has wonderful pupusas and I also recommend 7 Leguas Mexican restaurant.

Become a mentor with Denver Kids, Inc.

If you’ve ever considered mentoring, become a volunteer with Denver Kids, Inc. Denver Kids builds long-term relationships and life skills that play a vital role in the holistic development of youth within the Denver Public School system who are at-risk of dropping out through one-on-one educational counseling, mentorship and guidance.

The organization’s professional educational counselors work closely with volunteer mentors to address each student’s unique needs, challenges, and goals. As a mentor, you’ll help provide a K-12 student in the program with support, guidance, and exposure to new experiences. On average, volunteer mentors meet with their mentees twice a month over a period of at least one year. The average match length is four years. There are many ways to engage with your mentee. Activities may include movies, concerts, plays, ball games, and museums. Or it might just involve hanging out and talking.

Mentors have access to ongoing resources and training to help ensure their student relationships are successful and rewarding. For more information, visit denverkidsinc.org or call 720-423-2483.

Meet Mike Calo

What does your job entail?
The Commander of District 2 is responsible for 17 very eclectic neighborhoods located in North Central/East Denver. We have approximately 150 personnel assigned to Police District 2. I oversee the day-to-day police activities that take place within the district. The primary goal is to prevent and reduce crime. The emphasis is solidly grounded in all aspects of community policing.

What do you enjoy most about your job?
I enjoy seeing crime reduction through prevention and successful applications of modern policing technologies. I have an outstanding staff and enjoy seeing them do their jobs in a most professional manner. I also enjoy the relationships that we have made throughout the district, city and beyond.

What kind of impact do you hope to have in the community?
My primary goal is to continue to see violent crime reduced through our crime prevention strategies. District 2 achieved the largest reduction percentage in violent crime per the Uniformed Crime Report as reported to the FBI for 2016. My team is very proud of that statistic, but there is much more work to do. I want to continue to strengthen my relationships with the community and do so in a very transparent manner.

What do you do for fun outside of work?
I have very little time off because of my job requirements. I balance that with extensive travel when I am away from my duties. I like to work out, read, and enjoy my family and friends. My second career choice was marine biologist. I enjoy snorkeling, skin-diving, and scuba. I have visited many places in the Central and South Pacific oceans. My time in the ocean allows me to put things in perspective.

What is something the community might not know about you?
I am an avid New England Patriots fan. I grew up in Massachusetts and will forever be loyal to the Patriots, Bruins, and Red Sox Nation. I attended the FBI National Academy (FBI NA 262) during the fall of 2015. I was recognized as a “distinguished graduate” among 229 colleagues from around the globe.
The Burro King offers made-from-scratch Mexican plates in Northeast Park Hill

The Burro King restaurant in Northeast Park Hill offers a variety of Mexican dishes in a comfortable, cozy atmosphere. The menu features breakfast and lunch burritos, tortas (Mexican sandwiches), chiles rellenos, tamales, chimichangas and a Mexican hamburger (a beef patty with beans, wrapped in a tortilla and smothered in chile sauce). All the dishes are made from scratch.

“My favorite dishes are the relleno plate and the Burro King Burrito, with shredded beef, cheese and avocado,” said owner Javier Canales.

When Canales opened The Burro King in 2009, he did so with very little help. “In the beginning, I worked from 6 a.m. to 5 p.m.,” said Canales. “I only had three customers the first day I opened.”

“The hardest part of starting my own business was deciding to do it. I didn’t have anyone to help me run the restaurant initially.” Today, the business is thriving.

The restaurant’s popularity and steady flow of customers is a result of word-of-mouth rather than traditional advertising and marketing.

The location, at the southeast corner of Monaco Parkway and Smith Road, draws a diverse customer base. “I picked this location because there is a lot of traffic and not a lot of competition,” Canales said.

Canales and his staff are active in giving back to the community through a nonprofit, the Elite Warrior Youth League Fund, which teaches children karate. The Burro King sells burritos to the nonprofit at a lower price so the youth can fundraise for the program through burrito sales.

Despite the challenges of entrepreneurship, Canales looks forward to expanding The Burro King. “It’s hard sometimes to run my own business, but I like being my own boss.” He has plans to open a second location in the Denver Tech Center in late 2017.

The Burro King is located at 6500 Smith Rd. It’s open Monday through Friday, 6:30 a.m. – 8:30 p.m., Saturdays 8 a.m. – 4 p.m. and is closed on Sundays.

For more information on the menu or to place a to-go order, call 303-339-0783.

A message from Charlotte Brantley, Clayton Early Learning President

Clayton Early Learning (Clayton) has been serving children in the Northeast Denver community for more than 100 years. Clayton’s mission is to ensure optimal development during the birth-to-5 period, for all children, especially those of limited opportunities. Clayton currently serves approximately 800 children and their families per year, most who live in Northeast Denver. The funding to provide these services comes in large part from a trust left by Mr. Clayton upon his death in 1899. While many members of the community know our historic campus at Martin Luther King Boulevard and Colorado Boulevard, many are unaware that the Park Hill Golf Course is also one of the largest assets of the Clayton Trust.

Clayton Early Learning leases the operations of the golf course to a golf management company through a 20-year lease. The lease will expire in December of 2018. The golf course currently operates at a significant financial loss, making it unlikely that it can continue as is while also providing the necessary funds to support Clayton’s important role for the children and families of Northeast Denver.

As your neighbors and community partners, The Clayton Board of Trustees and I are launching a public dialogue regarding the future of this site with two goals in mind. First, to ensure the property can provide a sustainable funding source for Clayton’s early childhood education mission, which serves the children of Northeast Denver. Second, to consider the future use of the land as something both the community and Clayton can be proud of well into the future.

Please join the conversation in one of the following ways:

- Attend our first Community Forum to learn more about the issue and provide input: Wednesday, March 15, 2017 5:30-7:30 p.m. in the Main Auditorium of the Administration Building on the Clayton Early Learning Campus, 3801 Martin Luther King Boulevard.
