DENVER – As of July 14, 2020, the City and County of Denver is working with the state of Colorado to secure more personal protective equipment (PPE) for local hospitals.

DENVER – As of July 14, 2020, the City and County of Denver is working with the state of Colorado to secure more personal protective equipment (PPE) for local hospitals.

"The City and County of Denver is working with the state of Colorado to secure more personal protective equipment (PPE) for local hospitals," said Mayor Michael B. Hancock. "We are committed to supporting our healthcare workers and ensuring they have the resources they need to care for our communities during this pandemic."