Jocelyn Bucaro
Deputy Director of Elections

Jocelyn joined the Denver Elections Division in June 2018 and successfully led the team through three elections, including the November 2018 General Election. She previously served nearly seven years as the Director/Deputy Director of the Butler County (Ohio) Board of Elections where she oversaw the implementation of new processes to streamline and improve the election process, reducing the cost of elections by 25 percent while also making voting easier and more accessible for voters. Under her leadership, the Board of Elections received multiple awards from the Ohio Secretary of State for its poll worker recruitment program and early vote center operations.

Jocelyn came to elections administration with over ten years of experience in the fields of government, politics and education. She spent over three years working in Washington, DC as a legislative aid in the U.S. Senate and as a staffer in the White House, and she worked as a top aid on a national presidential campaign. She earned a Master's Degree in Secondary Education from the University of Cincinnati and taught U.S. and World History. She also holds a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science with Honors from DePaul University in Chicago.
