

2017 - Denver Moves: Transit Year in Review

Over the past year, the Denver Moves: Transit team has been busy gathering your feedback about how to improve transit in Denver. We accomplished a lot in 2017, and your participation and input has been important, helping guide our work every step of the way. Here's snapshot of how many members of the community we heard from and key findings from our analysis and public input.

We'll be kicking off 2018 with more community input opportunities in January and we hope to see you there!

More details available at <https://www.denvergov.org/content/denvergov/en/denveright/transit.html>

Surveys issued

Chose Colfax Avenue as a top priority transit street

Said high frequency transit is the most important

Said more high capacity transit, such as bus rapid transit (BRT) and light rail, is the most important

Transit outreach events

and

Project Task Force meetings

It should be easier for me to access transit by bike or on foot

It would help me if buses and trains came more frequently

I want better transit connections to work, school, and other important destinations

