

Office of Human Resources
HR Learning and Development Manager - CA3005
THIS IS A PUBLIC DOCUMENT

General Statement of Duties

Collaborates with the HR Learning and Development Director to drive talent management, employee development strategies, and training management. Partners with human resources service teams.

Distinguishing Characteristics

There are three general management classes (Manager, Director, and Executive) and specific individual management classes. The Manager is a first level management class. A Manager oversees work groups/areas within a division or agency and is generally responsible for supervising first or second line supervisors and/or individual contributors. A Manager position is operationally and/or functionally focused.

The Director is a mid-level management class. A Director manages a division or agency and is generally responsible for supervising managers, supervisors, and individual contributors. A Director position is operationally and/or functionally focused as well as strategically focused.

The Executive is the highest level of management class in the city other than appointees or elected officials. An Executive directs multiple divisions and is generally responsible for supervising directors, managers, supervisors, and individual contributors. An Executive position is strategically focused.

The HR Learning and Development Manager class is distinguished from the Executive Director of the Office of Human Resources that directs a comprehensive, city-wide Human Resources Office by establishing a multi-year vision and strategic plan for the organization while ensuring alignment with the city's broader organizational and human resources goals and objectives and ensures the organization accomplishes annual goals and initiatives.
