Participants are referred through the Denver County Court and are individuals experiencing housing instability and service users of Denver County Court programs and services. Most participants are experiencing multiple disabling conditions.

Goals of the CPCC program
- Provide short-term beds and housing placement supports for eligible clients as part of the Denver Wellness Court.
- Provide supportive services including independent living skills, housing referrals, and navigation services.
- Completion of probation requirements and placement in permanent housing.

Success story

A CPCC client presented with MH and SUD support needs, as well as a need for stable housing. She entered the program at Beacon Place in June 2021 after being referred through her probation officer.

Since that time the client has regularly engaged with court services toward the resolution of her court mandated activities. While in the CPCC program at Beacon Place, the client engaged in regular behavioral health visits with her onsite BH therapist, connected to psychiatry, a PCP and other needed supports. The client also received regular assistance in becoming prepared for, and applying to, permanent housing options of her choice in the metro area.

Due to interventions from Beacon staff and the client's other supports during her time in the CPCC Beacon program, the client continues to work on her court mandated activities, continues to be stably housed at Beacon, has obtained a housing choice voucher through support/advocacy from her case manager, and is now scheduled for lease up in a new permanent housing apartment this Friday 8/19/22!
